Seven Youth Inquest/Coroners Inquests

Home > Coroners InquestsJethro AndersonCurran StrangJordan WabasseKyle MorriseauPaul PanacheeseReggie BushieRobyn HarperCoroners InquestsSeven Youth Inquest

The Seven Youth Inquest will examine the circumstance of the deaths of First Nation youth Jethro Anderson (in 2000), Curran Strang (in 2005), Paul Panacheese (in 2006), Robyn Harper (in 2007), Reggie Bushie (in 2007), Kyle Morriseau (in 2009) and Jordan Wabasse (in 2011). All of these youth died while they were attending high school in Thunder Bay, far away from their families and home First Nation communities.

Due to the similarities in all seven cases, Nishnawbe Aski Nation (NAN) called for a broader inquiry to fully investigate the circumstances surrounding the loss of these youth and to find ways to prevent such tragedies from happening again.

NAN received the expressed support of Chiefs and the families of the victims for a Joint Inquest into the deaths of all seven youth, which was announced by the Chief Coroner of Ontario on May 31, 2012.
