

Police identify deceased 21-year-old man found in Neebing-McIntyre Floodway

Police ask anyone who saw Dylan Moonias in the Intercity area last week to come forward

CBC News Posted: Sep 26, 2017 4:08 PM ET Last Updated: Sep 26, 2017 4:08 PM ET

Thunder Bay police have identified the male found deceased in the Neebing-McIntyre floodway on Saturday as 21-year-old Dylan Joe Francis Moonias. (CBC)

- Body of 21-year-old Indigenous man found in Thunder Bay's Neebing-McIntyre floodway, police investigating
- Female's body found in Thunder Bay's Neebing McIntyre Floodway

Police have identified the 21-year-old man found deceased in the Neebing-McIntyre Floodway on Saturday as Dylan Joe Francis Moonias of Thunder Bay.

Moonias's body was found at about 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 23, by a kayaker, according to Thunder Bay police. A postmortem examination has taken place, but police said the results are pending further testing by the regional coroner's office.

- Body of 21-year-old Indigenous man found in Neebing-McIntyre floodway in Thunder Bay, Ont.
- Thunder Bay police investigating after body found in Neebing McIntyre Floodway

Police are still investigating Moonias's death. Anyone who may have seen him in the Intercity area between the evening of Thursday, Sept. 21 and the morning of Saturday, Sept. 23, is being asked to contact police or Crime Stoppers.

Police have described Moonias as an Indigenous man with a slim build and short black hair. He was reportedly wearing a beige or brown long-sleeved shirt, black pants and black shoes.

Police said he may have been in the company of others in the area.