

Ontario deputy commissioner threatens to sue Ford after premier allegedly accuses him of breaking Police Services Act

'Specifically, it is alleged that you intentionally, deliberately, and maliciously made statements you knew or ought to have known to be false,' Blair's lawyer said in a letter to Ford

OPP Deputy Commissioner Brad Blair (left) is suing Premier Doug Ford for defamation after the premier allegedly accused him of breaking the Police Services Act. THE CANADIAN PRESS

THE CANADIAN PRESS
SHAWN JEFFORDS

February 25, 2019
5:34 PM EST

Last Updated
February 26, 2019
8:28 AM EST

Filed under
News > Canada

 Comment

TORONTO — One of Ontario's highest-ranking police officers is threatening to sue Premier Doug Ford accusing him of defamation.

In a notice of intent to sue filed last month, lawyers for Ontario Provincial Police Deputy Commissioner Brad Blair allege that Ford damaged the officer's reputation when he accused him of breaking the Police Services Act by speaking out against the hiring of a Ford family friend for the force's top job.

FEATURED ARTICLES

U.S. plush toilet paper use wiping out Canada's forests away the future: report

NEWS • FULL COMMENT • SPORTS • CULTURE • LIFE • MORE • DRIVING • CLASSIFIEDS • JOBS • SUBSCRIBE • FINANCIAL POST • VIDEO

Twitter

Reddit

Email

More

RECOMMENDED FOR YOU

'His instincts have been right': Amid Trump's bluster on North Korea, a strategy takes shape

Pills can help people control risky drinking, so why aren't doctors prescribing them?

NP View: Trudeau's SNC-Lavalin defence is awkwardly shaping up to be 'blame her'

Jagmeet Singh's byelection win dampened by NDP loss of Montreal riding that started orange wave in 2011

Five heavily armed U.S. 'mercenaries' were police superintendent Ron Taverner's appointment as OPP commissioner.

"Specifically, it is alleged that you intentionally, deliberately, and maliciously made statements you knew or ought to have known to be false," Falconer said in a letter to Ford.

Falconer said Ford told media that Blair had allegedly violated the act, when there is no evidence the veteran officer did so at any time during his career.

STORY CONTINUES BELOW

"The preparation, distribution and publication of these defamatory words have caused extensive harm to Deputy Commissioner Blair's professional and personal reputation, as well as other damages to be specified at a later date," Falconer said.

In December, Blair said OPP officers had expressed concerns the selection process which resulted in Taverner's appointment was unfair and could raise doubts about the police service's independence.

SEE ALSO

Christie Blatchford: Reviewing fishy Taverner hire for OPP chief won't change Ford's mind

Kelly McParland: Taverner can't be an effective OPP leader under this cloud

Ron Taverner to return to old job with Toronto police amidst controversy over OPP commissioner role

Blair, who was also in the running for the commissioner's job, also suggested that Taverner's appointment be delayed until an

TOP NEWS VIDEOS

Watch John Ivison: Tough talk from a man with nothing to lose

Watch Jody Wilson-Raybould's short Commons speech gets standing applause from opposition parties

Watch Actor Jussie Smollett arrested to face felony charge for false police report: authorities

Watch Officer disciplined in McArthur probe found the serial killer's explanation credible, new court documents say

SHARE YOUR FEEDBACK

We want to improve your reading experience

Take our 60-second survey

DAILY HEADLINE NEWS

Email

By clicking "Submit", I consent to receiving the above communication from Postmedia Network Inc. I understand that I may unsubscribe from these communications at any time.

Submit

After the ombudsman seemed to investigate, Blair identified a legal challenge in an attempt to force the watchdog to probe the hiring. Ontario's Divisional Court is expected to hear the case in April.

The court documents filed in the case also contain more details about Blair's allegations that Ford's chief of staff asked the OPP to purchase a "larger camper type vehicle" and have it modified to the specifications of the premier's office, with the costs associated with the vehicle "kept off the books."

The documents show the cost to taxpayers for the van remodel would be over $50,000, not including the cost of the vehicle itself. The custom features were to include a 32-inch television with Blu-Ray player, a mini-fridge, black leather captain's chairs and a reclining leather sofa bench, the documents said.

A spokesman for Ford said Monday that the premier asked the OPP to look into obtaining a "cost-effective used van" for him to work and travel in across the province.

"The emails sent to the OPP from a member of the premier's office staff are not an official procurement of a van, instead they are a cost estimate and reveal an effort to minimize expense," Simon Jefferies said in an email.

It is alleged that you intentionally, deliberately, and maliciously made statements you knew or ought to have known to be false

Blair's lawyers said they filed the notice of intent to sue for defamation after the government failed to respond to four letters seeking to clarify if Blair was under a Police Services Act investigation.

Jefferies denied Ford's statements were a reprisal against Blair.

"Mr. Blair is an unsuccessful candidate, and still appears to be clearly upset that he did not get the job," he said, adding that the premier would respond to any legal proceedings through his counsel if necessary.

NDP Leader Andrea Horwath called Ford's actions "shameful" and said his comments were an attempt to intimidate Blair.

TOP NEWS VIDEOS

Watch Roopesh Rajkumar, accused of killing 11-year-old daughter, dies in hospital: police

Watch Three anti-Brexit Tories quit party to join new centrist group amid 11th hour negotiations

Watch Jussie Smollett gave detailed instructions to men who helped him stage attack, prosecutors say

Watch Neighbours heard 'horrible screams' as fire engulfed Halifax home, killing seven Syrian refugee children

LATEST NEWS

Toronto police charge suspended immigration consultant with fraud

Man who allegedly threatened to kill held at bay by truckers on Manitoba highway

Next year in Caracas? Venezuelans hope exile will end soon

Detective: Officer's statement on shooting had discrepancies

17 Comments

Join the conversation →

FEATURED STORIES

U.S. plush toilet paper use wiping out Canada's forests, flushing away the future: report

The report gave failing grades to the leading toilet paper, tissue and paper

← Previous1

CANADA

B.C. school board might be first in Canada to provide students free tampons and pads*Pills can help people control risky drinking, so why aren't doctors prescribing them?Watch* 'The chatter is over': NDP Leader Jagmeet Singh looks for a fresh start after byelection win*Somali man who illegally entered Canada to flee Trump immigrant crackdown has refugee claim rejected*Ottawa should replace 'redundant' oil tanker ban with rigorous international regulations, Senate committee toldWatch* Wilson-Raybould to testify Wednesday to Commons justice committee on SNC-Lavalin affair

TOP STORIES

Watch Toronto's Canada Goose addiction is a disgrace to Canada

Tristin Hopper: The entire city of Toronto is playing a giant game of dressup in the delusional belief that they actually live in a cold place

Watch Josephine Mathias: Jussie Smollett's 'hate crime' shows how naïve some 'social activists' are

The actor's cartoonish stories about Trump supporters brandishing nooses reflects little about what racism in America most looks like today

Watch Stephen LeDrew: Trudeau fails his 'transparency' test on SNC-Lavalin

After two resignations and lots of obfuscations, he has yet to provide a single clear answer to anything.

THIS WEEK'S FLYERS

PETSMART
for the love of pets

only @ petsmart
February 26 - March 3

SAVE 15%
on orders of $100 or more
- OR -
save 10% on orders under $100
only @ petsmart.ca

Hover for Flyer

Powered by

COMMENTS

Postmedia is pleased to bring you a new commenting experience. We are committed to maintaining a lively but civil forum for discussion and encourage all readers to share their views on our articles. We ask you to keep your comments relevant and respectful. Visit our community guidelines for more information.

Sign in to Comment

MOST LIKED ▾ NEWEST

17 Comments

FlyerCity

Content Works

Post a Classifieds ad

Local Directory